Friday, October 2. 1713.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 6.

Genoa, September 21.

TH E Marquis de Villa-Major, Plenipotentiary of the Crown of Spain in Italy, has made pressing Instances to this Republick to forbid all Commerce with the Catalonians: Whereupon the little Council have Sat twice, and passed a Resolution, in Consequence of which an Interdict is published, prohibiting all Commerce with Barcelona and other parts of Caralonia, that have not submitted to King Philip, on the Penalty of Confiscation of the Vessels so employed, and of the Estates of those who shall transport any Provisions or Ammunition thither.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 6.

Turin, Sept. 21. Our Duke and Dutcheſs are on their Departure for Villafranca, there to imbarke on Admiral Jennings's Squadron for Sicily. His Royal Highness has newly made considerable Promotions among his Ministers and Officers, and having declared the Prince of Piemont Regent during his Absence, has appointed for Ministers of State under him, the Count de Gouvon, M. de Mellarede, the Count de Vernon, the Marquis del Borgo, the Count de Tarin, and the Marquis de Coudre. The President Gaud is made Governour of all Savoy.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 6.

Vienna, Sept. 23. We learn, that by the Treaty made for the Sale of Final, the Emperour has reserved to himself a Right to purchase that Place again for the same Sum 'twas sold for, and in the mean while 'tis always to remain a Fief of the Empire.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Oct. 7.

Frankfort, Oct. 1. We have Advice from Basil and other Places that Fribourg is besieged by the Enemy; and that about 4000 Waggonſ loaded with all Necessaries, are moving thither from Burgundy, the three Bishopricks, and Alsace. The Garrison consists of 7000 Men, commanded by a Governour named Harch or Harrach, who has the Reputation of a very experienced vigilant and brave Commander. This Governour suspecting the Fidelity of some of the Officers, has put several of them out of the Place, and substituted others in their Room. The French give out that they shall be Masters of the Town in 8 Days, and of the Castle in 4 Weeks; which may well be, their Force being so great, and the Place not so strong as Landau. Some Letters tell us they have also besieged Villingen, and have already opened Trenches against it; but this is doubted. The Reinforcement sent to our Troops in the Black Forrest consists of 18000 Men; and they are to be followed by as many more: We are assured the Enemy's Forces on both Sides of the Rhine, are in Number 160000 Men, besides Detachments and Garrisons. The Prussian, Hanover, and Hessian Troops, are as they give out to march at length up the Rhine; we shall soon see whether this be true, mean while they are much wanted. The Enemy are in a Country abounding with all things, and they demand Contributions on all Hands, and live as they please at the Expence of the Germans.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated Oct. 6.

Ausbourg, Sept. 27. Prince Eugene has written to the Diet, to exhort them to take proper Measures in the present Conjunction, till he can come hither himself when the Campaign is ended: That in the mean while his Highness will take Care to cover the Diet against all Insults from the Enemy, &c. The Plague rages more and more in Ratisbon.

From the Amst. Courant, dated Oct. 7.

From the Camp before Stetin, Sept. 30. The 28th at 9 in the Morning Baron Staf Major-General gave Order for divers Batteries erected for bombarding the Town to fire upon it at once; and they did such Execution, that the following Night the Enemy sent out a Drummer to desire a Cessation of Arms, which was granted. The next Morning M. Bassewits and Bruckenthal were admitted into the Place, and they acquainted the Governour that the Cessation of Arms would be prolonged for no more than 7 Hours longer: Those Officers returning made report, that all the Burghers refusing to do military Service, the Regiment of Pomerania appearing resolved to lay down their Arms, and the rest of the Garrison shewing little Disposition to fight, the Governour General Meyersfeld was willing to march out with his Garrison, provided 5 Days were allowed him to send an Express to Count Welling, which was allowed him accordingly, with this Condition, that a Muscovite Officer should ride with the Person sent Express, and that the Letter written by General Meyersfeld should be unsealed; and this Morning early they both rode from hence to go to Count Welling. In the mean while 160 of the best Houses in the Town are laid in Ashes.

Hambourg, Oct. 3. The King of Prussia having taken in 110 Muscovites among his Grenadier-

Grenadier-Guards, 'tis said he will allow the building a Church for them at Berlin and the maintaining a Priest to perform their religious Worship in it. 'Tis talked the King of Prussia who is gone a Stag-Hunting with the Prince of Anhalt-Deffau, designs to make a Tour incognito to the Camp before Stetin, to view the Siege. 'Tis rumoured also that there is a secret Treaty between that King and the Czar. 'Tis thought the Swedes in Stetin are willing to put that Place in Sequestration into the Hands of his Prussian Majesty.
